COUNTRY

ABOUT GEORGIA

Georgia is a country that lies at the crossroads of Europe and Asia, in the Caucasus region. It has a rich and diverse history, culture, and natural beauty. Georgia is known for its ancient winemaking tradition, its stunning mountain scenery, and its hospitable people. Georgia has a coastline on the Black Sea, where subtropical resorts and historic cities attract visitors. It also has a rugged interior, where the Greater and Lesser Caucasus mountains offer opportunities for hiking, skiing, and exploring.

Georgia has a variety of ethnic groups, languages, and religions, reflecting its location at the junction of different civilizations. The majority of Georgians are Orthodox Christians, but there are also Muslim, Jewish, and other minorities. Georgia's capital and largest city is Tbilisi, a vibrant and cosmopolitan metropolis that blends old and new. Georgia is a parliamentary republic, with a president and a prime minister. It has faced many challenges in its recent history, such as the collapse of the Soviet Union, the conflicts in Abkhazia and South Ossetia, and the 2008 war with Russia. Despite these difficulties, Georgia has maintained its sovereignty and identity, and has pursued closer ties with the European Union and NATO. Georgia is a country that offers a unique and unforgettable experience for travelers, who can discover its beauty, diversity, and charm.

LOCATION

Southwestern Asia, bordering the Black Sea, between Turkey and Russia, with a sliver of land north of the Caucasus extending into Europe; note - Georgia views itself as part of Europe; geopolitically, it can be classified as falling within Europe, the Middle East, or both. Georgia (or Sakartvelo, which meaning Land of the Kartvelians) is a country of ancient culture situated in the Caucasus region bordering Russia, Turkey, Armenia and Azerbaijan. The country is composed of 10 districts plus 2 considered (not by Georgia) autonomous republics (Abkhazia and Samachablo/South Ossetia). By the way, don't tell a Georgian these regions are independent countries.

ETYMOLOGY

The name in Georgian means "warm place," referring to the numerous sulfuric hot springs in the area.

INDEPENDENCE

9 April 1991 (from the Soviet Union); notable earlier date: A.D. 1008 (Georgia unified under King BAGRAT III).

NATIONAL HOLIDAY

Independence Day, 26 May (1918); note - 26 May 1918 was the date of independence from Soviet Russia, 9 April 1991 was the date of independence from the Soviet Union.

Warm and pleasant; Mediterranean-like on Black Sea coast.

POPULATION DISTRIBUTION

Settlement concentrated in the central valley, particularly in the capital city of Tbilisi in the east; smaller urban agglomerations dot the Black Sea coast, with Bat'umi being the largest.

LANGUAGE

Georgian is the idiom spoken in Georgia, a unique language of a single alphabet. It is one of the 10 oldest languages still spoken in the world and part of the Kartvelian languages, a group of languages practically spoken only within and around Georgia. The Georgian language is not particularly simple and can be very difficult to learn, especially if your idea is to speak it correctly. Words are formed through prefixes and suffixes that indicate the meaning of words. For example, the name of the country in Georgian, Sakartvelo (საქართველო) means "where the Kartvelians live", with the prefix "sa" and "o" being added to the radical "kartvel" which make up the meaning of the word.

You do not necessarily have to speak Georgian to live in Georgia, especially if you want to live in the larger cities like Tbilisi, Kutaisi and Batumi. In most essential services it is always possible to find someone who speaks basic to advanced English. In the remaining of the situations Google Translate and the good will of the Georgian people always surpass the language barrier.

LIVING IN GEORGIA

Georgia is full of rich heritage attractions and ancient cultural sites. The cost of living in Georgia is extremely cheap compared to some other countries around the world. Accommodation and food are cheap and does not put a strain on your budget. Georgia is also home to one of the most unique cuisines in the world. The country was once a major route on the Silk Road, resulting in a number of spices, smells, and flavors passing through the nation.

The cuisine is deeply influenced by both European and Asian cuisines, and its history in the Soviet Union has also brought some hearty meals to the local food scene. Tap water in Georgia is totally safe to drink. The Caucasus mountains provide fresh, clean water that feeds into the local supply public transport seems a little tired in Georgia but it's still a pretty

CULTURE

Georgians are known for their warrior spirit, hospitality, love of life, and lively intelligence. Their sense of humor and reputed longevity contribute to the vibrant cultural fabric of Georgia. Georgia's culture is a captivating blend of ancient traditions, religious art, and a resilient spirit that continues to thrive.

Georgians, initially reserved, reveal their warmth and friendliness once familiarity blossoms. A cherished tradition is the Supra, a communal feast shared among friends and family within Georgian homes. If you receive an invitation to one, consider yourself deeply honored. Georgia boasts an ancient and distinctive cultural heritage, renowned for its hospitality and culinary delights. As a guest in a Georgian household, you hold a status akin to royalty, with food and drink generously offered at frequent intervals.

WEATHER

Georgia has a warm, temperate climate with pleasant weather that will definitely improve students' mood, memory and broadening cognitive style like openness to new information and creative thoughts. Georgia enjoys a varied climate, which is mostly sub-tropical. The summers are hot and humid, and winters are mildly cold. While the northern mountain peaks are permanently snowbound, the west coastal areas by the Black Sea enjoy a year-round balmy weather.

The average temperature in the east in summer ranges between 60°F to 75°F (20°C – 24°C) and in winter ranges between 36°F to 39°F (2°C – 4°C). Specifically, Western Georgia experiences a sub-tropical, maritime climate and in summer the average temperature is 72°F (22°C), dropping to 41°F (5°C) in winter.

COST OF HEALTHCARE

Medical costs are fairly affordable in Georgia. You can opt for an international plan which will cost you the same as similar plans in Europe and North America.

VISAS

Georgia, once lenient in allowing work under tourist visas, has recently tightened regulations. To engage in employment within the country, you now require a work permit. Fortunately, obtaining these permits is relatively straightforward, especially when compared to similar visas in other nations, even within the Caucasus region. The key requirement for a work visa in Georgia is an employment offer from a local organization. Importantly, this organization need not be Georgian; many international agencies operate within the country. As an expatriate, your best bet is securing an employment offer from one of these agencies, as they are more likely to conduct business in English. Additionally, it's worth noting that while working on a student visa is possible, such visas are not very common.

BANKING

Opening a bank account in Georgia is indeed straightforward. Here's what you need to know:

- Visit a Bank: Walk into a bank in Georgia
- Proof of Address: Bring along proof of address (which can be from your home country)
- Funds: Have some funds ready to transfer into the account

No local address is required, making it convenient for expatriates. Georgia's banking system is accessible and expat-friendly, allowing you to manage your finances with ease.

TRANSPORTATION

Georgia, strategically positioned at the crossroads of Europe and Central Asia, serves as a natural transport conduit bridging the West and the East. For students, this translates into flexible travel options aligned with their preferences. Let's delve into the key aspects of Georgia's transportation infrastructure:

Airports:

- Shota Rustaveli Tbilisi International Airport: A major gateway, connecting Georgia to global destinations.
- Aleksandre Kartveli Batumi International Airport: Vital for travelers seeking coastal access.
- David the Builder Kutaisi International Airport: A hub for Wizz Air, offering affordable connections to Western Europe and the United Arab Emirates.

Seaports:

- Batumi, Poti, Kulevi, and Supsa are operational seaports.
- Anaklia is currently under construction.
- The trans-Black Sea route links Georgia and Bulgaria, facilitating maritime trade.

Affordability:

- Transport costs in Georgia are student-friendly.
- From snow-covered fields accessible via low-cost, comfortable trains to exploring local villages in marshrutka transport vans, students can enjoy world-class amenities without breaking the bank.

In summary, Georgia's well-connected infrastructure empowers international students to explore both Georgian and European attractions while adhering to their preferred transport budget.

SAFETY & SECURITY

The local government in Georgia is committed to safeguarding its citizens and institutions within the country's borders, a commitment recognized by the global community. Guided by international laws and principles, Georgia acknowledges that safety is interconnected both among its citizens and within the broader international system. The safety of one state cannot come at the expense of another state's security.

Universities play a crucial role in maintaining a secure environment for health, life, and property. Within university campuses and their surrounding areas, legislated actions are implemented by law enforcement agencies to ensure safety. Additionally, security guards and CCTV cameras protect every university campus, creating a secure environment for students.

WHY STUDY MEDICINE IN GEORGIA?

Studying medicine in Georgia offers several compelling advantages for international students. Let's explore why Georgia is an excellent choice for aspiring medical professionals:

World-Recognized Universities:

- Georgian universities are globally recognized for their medical programs.
- The standard of education in Georgia is on par with institutions in the United States, Canada, and the UK.
- Well-established universities in Georgia provide state-of-the-art facilities that are renowned internationally, ensuring a comprehensive education for personal growth and development.

English-Taught Medical Programs:

- The Doctor of Medicine (MD) educational program is conducted in English.
- The program spans 6 years and aims to nurture caring, competent, and confident medical professionals.
- The teaching approach emphasizes outcomes, ensuring high-quality healthcare and biomedical research in academic and clinical settings.

Practical Training and Ethical Values:

- Students receive practical training predominantly in real-world environments.
- The curriculum aligns knowledge acquisition with practical application, emphasizing ethical values and respect for individual autonomy.
- Rational and efficient medical practices are at the core of the training.

Curriculum Overview:

- The initial 2 years focus on pre-clinical areas, laying the foundation for medical knowledge.
- Years 3 to 5 shift the focus to clinical study, where students gain hands-on experience.
- In the final year, students complete a year-long internship in a local hospital and undergo state exams.

Doctor of Medicine (MD) Degree:

- Upon fulfilling all requirements over the 6-year program, graduates earn the prestigious Doctor of Medicine (MD) degree.
- This qualification opens up global job opportunities for medical professionals.

3. What is the cost of study of medicine in Georgia?

The cost of studying medicine in Georgia, Eastern Europe, is very affordable compared to other parts of Europe. Georgian medical universities offer excellent value for their cost. Here are the approximate tuition fees for medicine program:

Undergraduate Medicine Programs:

- Tuition fees range from $4000 to $9000 per year approximately.
- In most cases, tuition fees are paid in two or three installments, and the amount must be transferred to the medical institution's bank account.

Postgraduate Programs:

- Fees for postgraduate studies are typically between $3000 and $5000 annually approximately.
- Postgraduate programs are offered in Georgian, so candidates must provide a Language Certificate to demonstrate their language proficiency.
- Candidates are also required to submit documentation and qualifications to the Georgian Ministry of Education and Science.

Additionally, living costs in Central and Eastern Europe are generally lower than in Western countries, making Georgia an attractive choice for international medical students.

4. What is the language of instruction for medical school students in Georgian Medical Schools?

Another significant factor contributing to the rising global prominence of Georgian universities is the implementation of diverse training programs in English, German, Russian, and French. This strategic move not only ensures alignment with international quality standards but also attracts a substantial number of foreign students seeking high-quality education in Georgia. As a result, it comes as no surprise that many medical professionals who studied in Georgia are now practicing across the globe.

5. What documents do students need to submit to study medicine in Georgia?

When applying to study medicine and dentistry in Georgian universities, applicants must submit the following documents:

Application Details:

- Brief biographic information
- Educational background
- Chosen course of study

7. What do Students Need to do After They Receive Their Conditional Offer Letter to Study Medicine in Georgia?

When students submit their applications to Georgian medical schools, they embark on a crucial phase of their journey toward medical studies: awaiting the acceptance letter. It is essential for students to remain focused during this period, ensuring that all required documents are submitted promptly. If necessary, they can seek assistance from official university representatives.

8. What Happens After Students Apply to Study Medicine in Georgia?

Upon applying for medical studies in Georgia, students must patiently await their acceptance letter.

Following the student's receipt of a conditional offer:

They should carefully review the accompanying documentation. This offer should align with the medicine program they applied for at the Georgian medical university.

Upon receiving the Conditional Offer Letter, the applicant should pay the first installment for the first year (with the remaining amount payable in two or three installments, depending on each university's policy). In the "Purpose of Transfer" line, the applicant should specify their full name and passport number.

After the payment is received, the medical school will issue a Fee Acknowledgement Letter to the applicant. Candidates should also send an original copy of the Power of Attorney to their chosen university, authorizing the school to represent them with the Ministry of Education and Science of Georgia.

The university will then apply to the National Centre for Educational Quality Enhancement, seeking recognition of the applicant's education status acquired abroad. This recognition aims to grant the right to enroll in the higher educational institution without requiring Unified National Examinations or Unified Master's Examination.

Subsequently, the medical university will issue the enrollment document (granting student status) and extend an invitation to study in Georgia.

9. Why do Students Need a Letter of Acceptance to Study Medicine in Georgia?

The "Letter of Acceptance" is a crucial requirement for obtaining a student visa in Georgia, which subsequently leads to acquiring a Residence Permit.

10. Does a student require a Residence Permit to stay and study in Georgia?

Student Residence Permit in Georgia: The answer is YES.

When preparing to relocate to Georgia for medical university, students must also organize their residence permit upon arrival.

Hotels: Alternatively, some hotels offer daily rates starting from $60.

Legal Requirements: All students must sign an agreement with their landlords, which will be submitted to local migration authorities. This agreement serves as proof of residence for obtaining the Residence Permit.

These accommodation arrangements ensure a comfortable and secure stay for students pursuing their medical education in Georgia.

18. VISA

Before embarking on their medical programs, students applying to Georgian universities must be well-informed about their legal obligations. Among these, obtaining a visa is an essential and non-negotiable step, not only in Georgia but also across European countries. Understanding this process during the application phase is crucial.

Visa Requirements for Candidates Planning to Study Medicine in Georgia:

- Citizens of 98 countries worldwide are allowed to enter Georgia and stay visa-free for up to 1 year. However, citizens of countries requiring a visa should approach a nearby Diplomatic Mission or consular office of Georgia in accordance with their citizenship.

The Visa Process for Students Studying Medicine in Georgia:

- Visas are issued upon arrival at Tbilisi International Airport. However, citizens of visa-free countries who enter Georgia based on a student visa must visit the Public Service Hall within 45 days to process their D3 Student Visa Category.

When students visit the Public Service Hall, they should provide the following documentation:

- a. Document verifying admission to the authorized educational institution.
- b. Travel document: To obtain a Georgian student visa, the travel document must meet specific criteria:
 - Validity extending at least three months beyond the Georgian visa's validity.
 - Undamaged and free from unauthorized markings.
 - Containing at least two empty pages.
 - Issued within the last ten years.
- c. Visa Application form.
- d. Proof of sufficient funds, such as an applicant's bank statement from the last six months or other documents verifying financial capability.
- e. Evidence of Tuition Fee Payment.
- f. Two passport-sized photos.
- g. Individual health insurance: Valid for the entire visa duration.
- h. Proof of accommodation.
